How change happens

If Keystone helps families move quickly into permanent housing with time-limited rent assistance, move-in essentials, and voluntary, individualized case management, then families can settle into housing and address barriers that threaten stability. This support is intended to help families remain housed after assistance ends…

WHAT WE DO

- Identify apartments and help families move into permanent housing
- Pay security deposits and first month's rent, then step down rent help for up to 12 months
- Offer voluntary, individualized Stay Housed case management through home visits; frequency is adjusted…

WHAT CHANGES FIRST

- Families move from homelessness into permanent housing
- Families report greater confidence taking a next step to address a rent or landlord issue
- Parents report feeling more in control and less stressed

WHAT LASTS

- Families remain housed after time-limited rental assistance ends
- Fewer families return to homelessness or shelter

METHOD

About this data

1. Participants are known only by a code. Names are never collected.
2. Change is measured with the same questions at the start and end, for people who answered both.
3. Groups with fewer than 5 people are combined so no one can be identified.
4. Program numbers come from the organization's own records.
